A view of the world.

Comfort, freedom of choice, appearance, quality and price. They're all meaningless... if our customers aren't happy. That's the way we think. And have always thought. Maybe it's because of our origins, a feeling that was cultivated and evolved in the deepest and darkest of forests. That could be one explanation behind our success. But there are more. We're receptive to changes in the world around us, new phenomena, the fluctuations of fashion and the latest trends in art, culture and film. They bring us inspiration, courage and understanding. Because one thing is certain: to us, a sofa is never just a sofa. It's a part of life.

Although let's be honest: sofas are not exactly rocket science. A sofa should look good, feel comfortable, and last for many years. Because throwaway thinking just isn't us. One way of achieving our social and environmental goals is our FSC®-certification. Today, all our sofas are made of wood from responsible forestry.

For many years, freedom of choice has been one of our favourite expressions. Who doesn't love freedom of choice? That's why most of our sofa models are available in a variety of different versions. And even better, we also offer so many different fabrics and leathers that we can barely keep count ourselves.

So where do all these ideas come from? We are a Scandinavian company with our roots in Bjärnum in the far south of Sweden, so very likely from there. The same goes for our guiding principles: passion, commitment and responsibility. And just as we were when we started 30 years ago, we are still a family-run company. Sometimes leaning back in a comfortable sofa. With a view of the whole world.

Sustainability in more than one way.

Our own factory

There are all kinds of advantages to owning your own production process. One of the most important is having full control, from start to finish. We build the frames ourselves. We cut the fabric and leather. And we assemble and upholster the furniture. All of this takes craftsmanship, and it also gives us the space we need to create something unique. Furthermore, the factory's location in Poland puts us near our various markets, which is particularly important considering sustainability.

Design and aesthetics

Design is ultimately about what's important when it comes to choosing a sofa. The initial comfort, of course, but perhaps more importantly how the comfort feels after many years of use. The colour, the sensation as you run your hand over the fabric to feel the texture. For us, sofas are about precision, but equally about passion. This is the main reason why we design all the sofas in our range ourselves.

Flexibility and freedom of choice

The flexibility and freedom of choice we offer have become our hallmark. The freedom lies in the wide selection of fabrics and leathers, and is a genuine good value when choosing a sofa. It's also possible to combine our sofa models in all kinds of ways. The end result is true freedom to create your very own, unique Furninova sofa.

Sustainability and environment

It's not by chance that our factory is in Poland. It not only gives us full control over production and quality, but the location itself is also strategic. Quite simply, it puts us that bit closer to our various markets. We are also FSC® certified, because we believe that honest, natural materials create furniture that lasts. The vast majority of our fabrics are OEKO-TEX® approved. We also minimise waste to keep the air and water clean for future generations, and all our suppliers fulfil our supplier policy. This includes the EU's comprehensive REACH regulation, United Nations Conventions, ILO regulations, the UN Global Compact and the EU Timber Regulation.

Forest Stewardship Council

Furninova is certified by FSC® to achieve our social and environmental goals, creating a wide range of furniture crafted from responsibly sourced wood and wood-based products. The Forest Stewardship Council (FSC®) is an international non-profit organisation working towards establishing more sustainable forestry around the world.

FSC® provide global standards for forest management, which cover a balance of environmental, social and economic aspects. By being a member of the organisation, Furninova has a certification that confirms that the forest is being managed in a way that preserves biological diversity and benefits the lives of local people and workers while ensuring it sustains economic viability.

Every step in the process is transparent, honest and sustainable by default. The purchase of products carrying the FSC logo supports the preservation of hundreds of millions of acres of forest around the world.

At Furninova we believe that honest and natural materials create furniture that lasts

- in agreement with our commitment to deliver long-lasting pieces of furniture
- while minimising waste, still keeping the air and water we all share safe and clean for future generations.

The secret is seeing opportunities.

What was it that made you start Furninova?

In actual fact, it wasn't me that started Furninova. I was a football player, and let my sporting career decide where I lived. From Husqvarna FF I went off to IFK Hässleholm. There I came into contact with the furniture company Br. Gustafsson. It was my first job in the business. After a while I changed job and became a key account manager at one of Europe's largest furniture companies, Schieder. During that period I spent a lot of time at furniture factories across Poland. I then came across the former Deputy MD of Br. Gustafsson who by now had started the trading company, Furninova. So we joined forces, this was back in 1990.

Do you have any memories from that time?

My colleague and I started trading in all kinds of furniture. I remember one time especially when we bought a couple of thousand armchairs, which we sent to Bratells furniture store. They managed to sell 1,200 in an hour, an amazing accomplishment! The problem was that about 600 were returned with complaints within a few days, so it ended up being bad business for everyone involved. A couple of years later I bought my business partner out and became the sole owner of Furninova, and also turned it into a limited company.

Why do you have your own furniture factory?

Business started taking off. A lot of production was taking place in Poland, where I'd built up some good contacts. At one factory where we made sofas for MIO, IKEA was a big customer too. When they increased production with that supplier, there was no longer any room for us, and Mio gave me three months to secure production another way. And I did. About the same time, my old employer Schieder's business started declining, and their Polish supplier had less and less to do. This led me into a partnership with the supplier so we could keep producing furniture for MIO.

What do you think is behind Furninova's success?

Furninova's business has constantly grown, apart from a few short blips along the way. One of the keys to our success is all our skilled, dedicated colleagues. They're really passionate about what they do, and they've been a crucial part of our journey over the years. And of course my family, I couldn't have done it without them. Today, my wife and three adult children also work in the company. Over the years, we've built up a culture in the company that's hard to emulate. That's also an important reason behind our success. We stand by what we do and follow our set path. My attitude has always been to see opportunities, to be positive and believe in people. That attitude guides our entire organisation today.

Do you remember any critical events for Furninova?

Well, this was early on in our journey. Our factory in Poland wasn't as flexible as it is today, and MIO weren't as streamlined as they are now. In one meeting with them, I outlined my strategy on a chart. It basically boiled down to the end consumer being able to choose one of our models, one of our 250 different fabrics and which leg colour they wanted. That way the store could order and buy a truckload of sofas that had already been sold when they reached the warehouse. The MIO rep's spontaneous response was, 'That's the most ridiculous idea I've ever heard... But let's do it.' The concept was a major success both for the stores and for us. I won the customer's trust there and then, and it has meant a lot to me and to the development of Furninova as a whole.

What is typically Furninova to you?

I would say it's our flexibility. Partly how we greet and treat our customers, but above all in how we develop our sofas as products. No one else has as many models, modules or fabrics to choose from. This has become something of a hallmark for Furninova, and something customers request.

The Matterhorn which Benny climbed in 2019.

– Over the years, we’ve built up a culture in the company that’s hard to emulate. That’s also an important reason behind our success. We stand by what we do and follow our set path. My attitude has always been to see opportunities, to be positive and believe in people. That attitude guides our entire organisation today.

Benny Nilsson
Owner and CEO of Furnigroup.

What acquisitions have you made over the years?

Our first one was a small part of Conform, but as of 2018 we own 100 per cent. It’s a real success and delivers good results year after year. In 2008 we acquired 50 per cent of a former business partner, Ambiente, a Danish company that specialises in building trade fairs and retail stores. We also bought Affari, which makes beautiful home decorations from exciting materials, in 2015, as well as Romanian wooden furniture-maker Dekorame, in which we own 55 per cent. In 2015 we also bought Brafab, Sweden’s largest outdoor furniture company. There’s a bit of a story behind the acquisition of Brafab. They actually received higher bids from other prospective buyers, but former owner Rolf Brorsson wanted to sell to us. Today, it’s amazing to think that Brafab started out selling wicker baskets on market squares around Sweden. In 2011 we started Soul, which sells lamps, rugs and modern furniture, and that same year we founded Furnigroup to be the parent company of all our businesses.

How do you see the future of the furniture industry?

I think that what’s already happening in other retail will happen with furniture too. Fewer people are likely to buy their furniture from a traditional furniture store. The retail chains will survive, but only the strongest ones. Online sales are already growing strongly, and they will take more market share moving forward.

How are you dealing with changes on the market?

We’re following the trend of increased online sales, and looking at how this can be an opportunity for us and in what way. We have an excellent collaboration with our customers today and don’t want to disrupt their business. Working more internationally is another possibility. We can already be found in many places in Europe, as well as in China, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Dubai... and there is potential in many other places around the world too. But of course we must never forget to maintain our skill and feeling for developing the right models, details and fabrics... and being ready when trends come along.

What’s happening with the big trade fairs?

We’re continuing to invest in trade fairs around the world. IMM Cologne is our main one, but Stockholm, Shanghai, M.O.W. and Brussels are important too. It’s mainly the ability to present the entire breadth of our range that’s important. And of course all the meetings and contacts over the intensive days of the fair. I think that trade fairs will remain important for many years to come, although possibly in other forms. All the opportunities of digital technology will of course have an impact. Just imagine putting on a pair of VR goggles and walking around in different digital environments.

What’s the best thing about your job?

Working alongside genuinely dedicated, inquisitive people, as I have done for many years now. Having said that, I’ve never really thought of my job as a job, it’s been more of a lifestyle. But when I finished as MD and started as CEO, I suddenly had more free time. So I use a lot of that time to train and exercise. I even had the time to climb one of the world’s most famous mountains, The Matterhorn. It is located on the border between Switzerland and Italy, and its peak is 4,478 metres (14,692 ft) high, making it one of the highest summits in the Alps and Europe. It’s a long time since I was this fit...

And finally, what sofa do you have at home?

Furninova's lead designer refuses to compromise.

What is your role at Furninova?

I'm responsible for the design of all of our products, basically in all segments. It is therefore essential that I keep track of the latest trends, not only in the furniture industry. What happens in fashion, film and art are also important. The whole picture is required to make the right choices when it comes to fabrics, leathers, materials and colours. I'm also involved in the concepts we develop for our fairs and shop-in-shop solutions around the world.

How long have you been at the company?

It has been 15 years since I started at Furninova. Before that, I was a furniture designer for a Danish company producing sofas in Vietnam.

What is your background?

I graduated a fashion designer from an institute in Vienna. Here I learned a lot about leather products. Fashion production is actually quite similar to furniture production. When it comes to fashion you think of the sizes: 34, 36, 38... for sofas it is 2, 3 or more seats.

What is the best thing about your job?

The creating! The process, together with my colleagues, from mind to paper is unbeatable. To see our vision realised and presented at a large fair. And eventually end up in the houses of widely different people: from small apartments to large luxurious villas.

How does the product development cycle look?

Everything starts in spring when I gather inspiration for next years collection. During spring/summer, I start sketching on the collection. These ideas are then presented to our team. Many times the initial concepts change during the process to find the optimal means of production. When the whole team is satisfied, we start producing prototypes. At year-end, we present the models on different fairs, and after that, we prepare the model for production. At spring/summer the sofas are available in stores worldwide. It is a long process!

Continues on the next spread —————

– I’m hoping that people’s feelings towards sofas will change. It doesn’t have to become a status symbol, but get the credit it deserves. It is the most comfortable spot in our home, where we spend most of our time. For me, it is simple: a combination of design and comfort characterises the perfect sofa. Everything is about finding that balance since both are just as important.

Lenka Teilmann
Creative Director at Furninova.

From where do you draw your inspiration?

A lot of it comes from the fashion industry when we are talking about colours and style. For the design, I find a lot of inspiration from the larger Italian furniture manufacturers. I also visit several International fairs and of course our agents/customers out on their respective markets.

What are the trends when it comes to sofas in 2020?

When it comes to models, a lot of it is centred around round, organic shapes. We will also see a lot of boucle (fabric with a looped appearance) and a new type of nubuck leather. The comfort should be soft and pleasant.

What is most important, design or comfort?

Comfort without a doubt. I really don’t like something that is just good looking. Great design should always feel good to use. But you don’t have to compromise; it is most certainly possible to combine both comfort and design!

When it comes to colour and form - what is going on?

The retro style has reigned for a long time, but now focus will be on more contemporary design. On the fabric side velvet has been popular these past years, I also believe we will see more boucle fabrics in the coming years. The shapes will be round and more organic.

How perceptive are you?

I try to listen and spot a trend where more and more customers have requests on specific products. There is an ongoing dialogue that is very important to us.

Do the requirements differ in different markets?

On some markets, the price is more crucial than on others, so we need to keep an eye on that constantly. Some markets have a high demand for more designed products - it really is a mix of everything.

How will the sofa market evolve?

I think we will see more and more online companies that offer furniture. But I also believe furniture with good design and some edge will have its place in physical stores. People still want to see, touch and try the furniture.

What characterises the perfect sofa?

The right combination of design and comfort, it is a delicate balance as both are equally important. The sofa must match each person or family and their specific lifestyle.

Anything you want to add?

I’m hoping that people’s feelings towards sofas will change. It doesn’t have to become a status symbol, but get the credit it deserves. It is the most comfortable spot in our home, where we spend most of our time. For me, it is simple: a combination of design and comfort characterises the perfect sofa. The sofa sets the tone, just like the rhythm of a song.

Tell us a bit about yourself.

Already growing up I knew that my future lay somewhere out in the big wide world. When I was young, I'd sit on a rock near my home and daydream about it. First I thought I was going to be a professional ice-hockey player, but when that didn't work out other things called. I studied at Beckmans College of Design in Stockholm, but mostly felt like a frustrated artist.

How did you end up in Saudi Arabia?

"I saw a job ad, IKEA were looking for a visual merchandiser for a store in Saudi. Since nobody was sure where it was, I was the only applicant. That was the start of my journey, which led to Kuwait and eventually to my own company in the UAE.

Why did you decide to start your own business?

I think I'm unemployable. I question everything so I had to go in for myself. One stormy night in Kuwait, an angel came to me and told me I had to save the world from IKEA.

When did you get the idea for THE One?

I had the idea at some point in 1993. The only thing missing was money. I started looking for investors, and learnt that as an entrepreneur you have to be both naive and a bit stupid. You also have to believe that succeeding is going to be easy, otherwise you won't do it. The books don't tell you that it's going to hurt and take a lot longer than you thought.

When did you open your first store?

I eventually got the money together and opened up in September 1996. That's when someone told me that there are no bankruptcy laws in the UAE. If your business goes down the pan, you go straight to jail, do not pass Go like in Monopoly. That's a carrot or a whip for succeeding, depending on how you look at it.

And how did it go?

Well, for the first four or five years we survived on air alone. Benny, owner and CEO at Furnigroup, helped me a lot at the time. You might say we grew up together during that period.

How did you meet?

We first met over 20 years ago at the Cologne fair. Benny came to a café and had a trolley full of pictures of sofas. Nowadays, he and Furninova have one of the biggest and nicest stands at the entire fair. A lot has happened since then, but our friendship has just grown stronger over the years. It's like I've always said: life's too short to work with people you don't like.

What are Furninova's strengths today?

Everything a company does has to be genuine, starting with the products and the people who make them. Furninova is a genuine company, and I'm proud to be working with them. Their products and whole range are the very latest.

How would you describe quality?

Quality in the production stage doesn't have to mean higher costs. On the contrary, it usually means fewer returns and warranty claims. Everyone talks about quality, but few can deliver it. Quality is about everything from production and delivery to service – after all, things do go wrong occasionally. You have to be able to trust a company, and that starts with the management. When you come into contact with Furninova, you can feel the good energy.

When did you feel that business was starting to go well?

Dubai suddenly started growing in about 2000, so probably around then. It's hard to put a finger on exactly when it happened, but it was around then, and we were already there and ready to go. We didn't just survive in those first years, we opened more stores and could deal with the higher demand. As always, it's about being in the right place, at the right time, with the right product. Today we're in ten countries in the Middle East and North Africa.

What's the secret behind your success?

THE One has never just been a workplace, an ordinary shop. It has always been my aim to be an extraordinary company. And obviously, if you work for a company you're proud of and a workplace you enjoy working at, you perform better. We've been at the top of the Great Place to Work list for the past eight years. There was only one international company ahead of us, but not any more. Last year we knocked DHL down to second place, and we also became number one in Asia, which we're very proud of.

What sofa do you have at home?

We have a Nicoletta, a model made in association with Furninova for our market. It still sells well, even though it's a giant great thing. Otherwise the trend has been more towards smaller sofas, as more apartments than houses are being built and more people are moving into cities. A good sofa will always be an important piece of furniture, it's the centre-point of a living room. It sets the tone, just like the rhythm of a song. Is it rock, jazz or disco? The sofa determines what kind of music the room is.

A portrait of Thomas Lundgren, founder and owner of furniture chain THE One, sitting on a sofa and smiling. He is wearing a dark blazer over a dark t-shirt and a patterned scarf. The background is dark and textured.

– A good sofa will always be an important piece of furniture, it's the centre-point of a living room. It sets the tone, just like the rhythm of a song. Is it rock, jazz or disco? The sofa determines what kind of music the room is.

Vesta Standard, 2,5-module L + Chl-module R, in Degas Nature.

Vesta

Our most popular model. Vesta is an adaptable sofa family that can be specifically tailored to your requirements. A line of furniture that lets you unwind from everyday worries in style. We wanted to create a modern lounge sofa with many different modules – a model where you can create your own combination according to your needs. All modules are fully upholstered, so you are free to change them depending on your needs.

Right: Vesta Standard, 2,5-module L + Chl-module R, in Degas nature.

Vesta Motion

Vesta Motion offers a slide function module, where the seat slides back and forth to suit your needed seat depth with the help of electrical motors controlling the position. Unique to the Vesta Motion is the optional feather filled slide seat – adding functions should never compromise on comfort.

Egon

The cool, stylish lounge chair that never compromises on comfort – this really sums up our armchair Egon. Special sewing details on the edges add plenty of character to this beautifully relaxing armchair.

Egon in Jesolo cognac.

Degano

Degano's design is made of simple geometric shapes softened by the curves in the padded frame. Placed on slender metal legs that are available in a range of finishes, Degano is truly an armchair that is configured to suit a multitude of spaces.

Degano is available in both fabric and leather.

A softer leather like Jesolo or Grizzly is perfect for Jolyn Mix's back.

Jolyn

Trendy armchair Jolyn does not compromise on comfort or seating space. You'll sit like you're wrapped in feathers, with a super soft and spacious inside that's framed by a sleek and solid shell on the outside. The inner and outer materials of Jolyn can be ordered with contrasting upholstery to create a more dramatic look. The armchair's generous size makes it a joy to find your most comfortable sitting position, casually tossing your legs over the armrest or leaning into the high back.

Podium

The Podium armchair was designed with a nod to the iconic Scandinavian designs of the 50ies - but unlike many older designs, we also added options to let you express your individuality. Podium is an elegant and comfortable armchair in solid oak that fits in many contexts, as a single armchair or as a complement to a sofa group.

Footstool

Podium Special is available with a brace in the back as an extra design feature.

Podium is available in black wood and lacquered oak.

Revir

A classical armchair with elegant lines and a retro touch. Create your own personal look with different upholstery options as the seat and back cushions are available in both leather and fabric.

Revir's frame is made of solid oak

Also available with black frame.

Willow in Velvety mustard.

Willow

The soft curves that invite you to chat and relax are what Willow is all about. Elegant details with pullings in the back of the armchair add to Willow's classically relaxed elegance and ability to bend into homes in a wide range of styles.
